

Source Interior Brand Architecture is pleased to recommend Vaniti House as a supplier of accessible bathroom and guestroom aids for hospitality projects.

We had the opportunity to work with Vaniti House on the InterContinental Table Bay Hotel in Cape Town, where they supplied a range of accessible products for the project.

What particularly stood out to us was their approach to accessible products. Rather than treating accessibility as purely a functional requirement, Vaniti House has clearly recognised the importance of integrating accessibility into the overall design of a hospitality environment. Their products combine the necessary functionality and practicality with a more considered and aesthetically pleasing approach, allowing accessible facilities to feel appropriately integrated into a beautifully designed guest environment.

The quality and presentation of the products supplied for the InterContinental Table Bay were very good, and the team was professional and helpful throughout the process. Their willingness to work with the design requirements of a high-end hospitality project was particularly appreciated.

We believe Vaniti House offers a valuable approach to accessible design, demonstrating that products designed to support accessibility do not need to compromise the visual quality or character of a hospitality environment.

We are happy to recommend Vaniti House and would be pleased to work with them again on future hospitality projects.

Kind regards,
